Nancy has worked for Jordan School District for twenty-two years. Her first seven years she served as a special education teacher in middle school. She became an administrator, working for two years as a district special education administrator, then as a principal at Oquirrh Elementary. Finally, Nancy was placed as an administrator in Educational Support. There she oversaw federal programs, i.e. Title I, Title III, McKinney Vento, Native American programs, and others. Having missed school, children, and teachers, she retired from Jordan and became a principal at a local charter school. She loves school, and has a deep respect for teachers and children. Once fully retired, Nancy took a year to address personal and business tasks, and missing school, would love to work as a substitute principal for Jordan School District.
