

NICOLE JOHNSON

With over twenty years of administrative, teaching and CTE (Career and Technical Education) experience, I am also a busy mom of five children; one daughter and four sons. My passion is in education, health and fitness. Our family is located in small town Montana and we love to venture outdoors often both there and in Utah, our home state. Education came about after several years working in banking and accounting.

I began education as a math and business teacher at Valley Junior High School in Granite School District. Afterwards I wanted to experience more of secondary education as an adjunct professor (Accounting, Economics, Computers), cheer coach and business teacher at Murray High School for four years. At Copper Hills High School, I had the opportunity to work as a CTE Coordinator budgeting monies for the middle and high school CTE feeder system with other administrative responsibilities. My first administrative assignment was as a CTE Consultant, working closely with the director in budgeting over five million dollars per year, overseeing all middle and high school CTE programs, providing PD for all CTE teachers and Coordinators, and other duties.

I was heavily involved with the creation and opening of JATC South where I was appointed as the first principal serving for four years. I ended my career as Principal of South Jordan Middle School where I fell in love again with the middle level kiddos. I also served a short period working with elementaries and assisting with JPAS' and other duties. My goal is to have fun, stay busy and continue serving in education when needed.

Education

Bachelor' s Degree - Accounting - Westminster College

Master's of Business Administration - University of Phoenix

Educational Leadership - Southern Utah University